

Meghan Gardner

Intercultural Creativity Speaker®
American Camp Association Certified Director

Meghan Gardner is the founder of Guardian Adventures, which provides consultation and development of innovative and educational online and live events, training programs, and STEM programs. Meghan's expertise is in story-based and emotionally immersive experiences where participants are highly engaged and can transfer their education from the learning environment into practical use. She also specializes in locating and partnering with Cultural Educators and Advisors in a corporate environment, media portrayal, or public event so as to ensure that the culture being explored is portrayed with sensitivity and accuracy. Establishing and honoring these partnerships is key for any organization that wishes to be inclusive in both their internal operations and client facing products and services.
